A.J. Foyt

by Josh Wilker G. S Prentzas

IndyCar legend A.J. Foyt survives second attack by killer bees. A.J. Foyt, Actor: Racin for a Livin. A.J. Foyt was born on January 16, 1935 in Houston, Texas, USA as Anthony Joseph Foyt. He is an actor, known for Racin for a Livin (1957) and The Mighty Quinn (1960). Foyt is also a retired professional auto racing driver who won the Indianapolis 500 four times. He was involved in numerous other races and careers before retiring from the sport in 1992. His legacy in auto racing is one of great success and longevity, with a career that spanned several decades. Foyt's presence in the industry has been a testament to his dedication and perseverance, leaving a lasting impact on the sport as a whole.